The power of custom Slack services

- Unlock the benefits of conversational user interfaces with a custom bot or integration that increases your everyday efficiency in Slack.
- Integrate your existing systems into Slack to open up collaboration around key data and tasks.
- Automate routine processes and workflows by connecting multiple existing systems into Slack.

Slack services starting at $10,000

What makes Robots and Pencils stand out is their unmatched passion and knowledge of the mobile space. They continue to push the boundaries and never hesitate to be the first to create something new.

How clients are using our Slack integrations

- Query, create and update Salesforce records from Slack, keeping systems of record current and also automating Slack reminders based on lead age or status change
 - More efficiently track, resolve and report on key customer service issues
 - Control the Nest Thermostat to keep cozy while reducing energy costs
 - Monitor social media and email accounts, notifying users and channels of new messages to ensure a timely response
 - Spur innovation with a bot that builds employee profiles and connects individuals with similar interests or skills
- Manage all office TVs and digital signage to launch virtual meetings and publish internal communications from Slack
 - Onboard new users and team members fast with guided account creation, document review and more
 - Submit tickets to GitHub from Slack on any repositories, reducing switching between tools
 - Generate release notes from pull requests, using natural language to let users ask for a repo and time range, saving time on administrative tasks
 - Deploy 15+ services with a custom Github and Amazon Elastic Container Service deployment bot

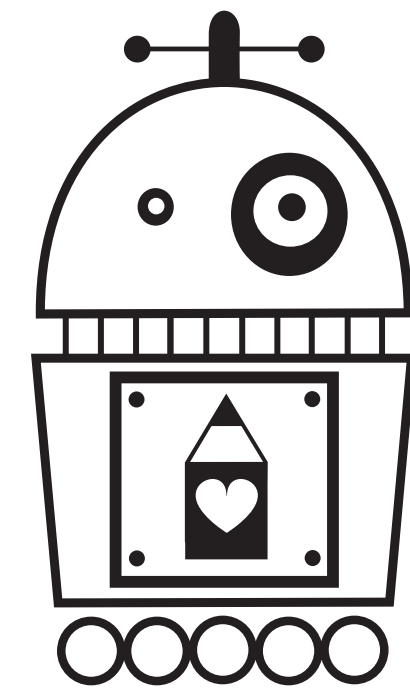

Host, deploy and share your Slack integration in seconds

Beep Boop is a hosting platform for Slack bots with turnkey build and deployments. Your integration or bot's source code is managed through Github and launched as a container, so whatever language you prefer is A-OK.
